SAN FRANCISCO (January 23, 2019) – The JCCSF’s Chief Executive Officer Marci Glazer spoke at the Women’s March San Francisco on Saturday, January 19, 2019, alongside Mayor London Breed, CEO of Planned Parenthood NorCal Gilda Gonzales, and more. As thousands of supporters gathered at the third annual event in downtown San Francisco, Glazer spoke of the evolution of the JCCSF to being the inclusive community center that it is today, and the Jewish traditions of inclusiveness, strength, and courage.

Since 2017, the JCCSF has produced events and workshops on immigration, disability rights, and civic engagement with the Women’s March San Francisco. The JCCSF is committed to engaging in conversations that support coalition-building, standing together for women, justice and equality for all.

Glazer’s full remarks are available here.

About the JCCSF
Urban and inclusive, the Jewish Community Center of San Francisco enriches, educates, and celebrates this vibrant City and its people. They host thousands of programs and experiences each year, from events with renowned performers and cultural icons, to spirited holiday celebrations and interactive pop-ups inspired by Jewish culture. The Fitness Center supports wellness through exceptional trainers and a daily lineup of performance-enhancing classes including yoga, cycling, boxing and swimming. Preschoolers discover the vital early love of learning at one of their three exceptional schools.

For more than a century, the JCCSF has evolved with the City, embracing its character and energy. Today, the organization taps into the rich layers of Jewish culture—its rhythms, resilience, and a call for justice—as a resource for everyone. With a commitment to providing people the opportunity for discovery, well-being and purpose, they believe in making the world better by helping the people in it be better.
